

UDEW

Tuesday, in Amsterdam

For me, this picture symbolize The Netherlands. When i take this picture, we were in Amsterdam, it was tuesday. I find this picture symbolizes this country because it's them capital and on this picture, there are a bike and they move a lot of by bike. The bike behind the river which is called Amstel is simbolizes too.

Dutch schools

Them schools is very different with in France. In Uden, them schools welcomes the college and lycee (in france) and us, it's just college and lycee. They haven't self-restaurant. Them lunch are just a sandwichs. They finish the classroom at half past 4.

Everyday life

They have a same routine but the meal isn't the same and they go to school by bike.

Streets

The streets are paved and on all roads there are cycle tracks.

Dutch fashion

The fashion is a same in France, the fashion is international.

TV Programmes

They watch TV in English but they put dutch subtitles.

The music on the radio / in the shops

The radio or in the shops, they listen to international music.

The weather

The architecture

It's so different from France because
There are a lot of bricks (the houses are Bricks)

Dutch speciality

Bitterballen

Réglisse hollandais

Stroopwafel

Sports

I like voley-ball because it's a team sport and it's good with the exchange students because we can create a liks ans it's important. We had fun together while communicating.

For starters, we went to Amsterdam on Tuesday so I will describe that day. First of all, we met at school in the morning and then left by bus to Amsterdam ? It was very good vibes with a exchange students. The bus drops us in the center of the city and then we start walking whole morning. We took a tour of the city prepared by the Dutch students. When we did visit the city, we first went into the red street where there is prostitution. Then we went to a street where there were Coffeeshops (it's everywhere) and shops where there was a lot of food like cupcakes and waffles. After we stopped on a place where there were lots of pigeons. At the end of the tour, we were visited a museum called "Rijksmuseum". It is a museum dedicated to the fine arts with works known around the world. It is the most important museum of the Netherlands on this type of work with more than two million four hundred fifty thousand visitors in 2014. There is one million objects inside but only eight thousand objects are exposed because the objects are very pretty and it's very interesting. There is a harmonization between each object and the objects are very well entrenched. The museum was a beautiful place. In this museum is presented "The Dairy" that is to say « La Laitière » in French which was painted by Johannes Vermeer. Then we went for a boat tour which is a boat tour on the river in Amsterdam called Amstel.

This audio visit showed us the places we saw when we were on the river. Next to us were barges which are inhabited. We do not have it in France but I think it's a very good idea and it's especially pretty. They show us the most mythical places in Amsterdam and we see them differently from the street. After the boat when it was raining, we had free time for us buying memories. The night began to fall and I surrendered Amsterdam was more beautiful in night time than day. For them it is Christmas soon so the streets are decorated and it embellishes the streets which gives even more charm to the city which is beautiful. In the evening, we were eating in a restaurant called "the bazaar". It was a Maghreb restaurant. It really was because we all ended up at the restaurant so we could all talk to each other, and we were about fifty in the restaurant which was funny because we were a lot. After the dinner, we had to go to the bus, we took a same street and it is not at all the same decor the day than in the evening. We felt like we were somewhere else.
